

Science at Risk:
Toward a National Strategy for Preserving Online Science
June 26 – 27, 2012

Montpelier Room, LM-619 (6th floor, James Madison Building)
Library of Congress, 101 Independence Avenue SE, Washington, DC

Meeting Agenda

June 26th: (Full Day)

9:00-10:20 Opening Session

Overview and Goals for the Summit: Martha Anderson

Summary and Commentary on Pre-Meeting Questionnaire Responses: Abby Smith Rumsey

10:20-10:45: Open Exhibition of Library of Congress Science Manuscripts, Leonard Bruno

11:00-12:00: Setting the Stage: Understanding Existing Collection Practices

History of Science at the Library of Congress, Peter Young

10 Years of Archiving the Web at the Library of Congress, Nicholas Taylor & Jennifer Harbster

1:00-1:55 Understanding Science Blogging

Reflections on 10 Years of Science blogging, Bora Zivkovic

Open Notebook Science, Anthony Salvagno

1:55-2:50 Understanding Citizen Science

The Zooniverse Citizen Science Projects: Arfon Smith

YardMap and Citizen Science as Data Collection: Rhiannon Crain

3:00-3:55 Understanding New Models of Online Science Publications

Modes of Science Discourse at the Public Library of Science, Kristen Ratan

The Journal of Visualized Experiments, Moshe Pritsker

3:55-4:45 Day One Recap Discussion and Closing

June 27th (Half Day)

9:00-10:20 Panel Discussion: Perspectives on Connections to Collecting Practice and Long Term Historical Value, Discussants: Christie Moffatt, Patricia Hswe, Fred Gibbs, Moderator: Trevor Owens

10:20-11:50: Identify Concrete Next Steps, Recommendations to the Library of Congress

11:45-12:00 Going forward: Clifford Lynch